Weekly-report 3

I’m sorry for the late submission, but this week has been very difficult because of some family issues.

Despite this, I tried to continue my research by contacting companies on LinkedIn and sending emails. I followed up with several companies I had contacted previously, but unfortunately, I haven’t received any responses. I also spent a lot of time looking for different opportunities on LinkedIn and other websites.

In addition, I reached out to several people in my personal network to ask for help with my internship search, but unfortunately, this was unsuccessful as well.